- b) 185 Cycles during the Warranty Period with a 50% discharge depth; or
- c) 100 Cycles during the Warranty Period with a 100% discharge depth.

The amount of cycling the batteries have been subjected to will be determined by a teardown analysis of the batteries in question.

4. A Product will not be considered defective or nonconforming if it has delivered at least eighty percent (80%) of its rated capacity during the Warranty Period. This will be determined by recharging the battery for 48 hours, then discharging and measuring the amount of Ah used versus the Ah capacity of the battery.
5. Product must be of proper capacity and size for the intended applications.
6. The Product has not been subjected to misuse, abuse, or physical damage.
7. PURCHASER has promptly notified Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd. of any defects or nonconformities and cooperated with Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd. by making the Product available for assessment and/or repair by Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd..
8. It shall not be deemed necessary for defective or nonconforming Products to be returned to the Hitachi Chemical Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd. for credit if the quantity involved is ≤ 4 units. However, the claim must be accompanied by a LDI report containing the relevant readings and details of the failure. Quantities of > 4 units must be returned for Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd. to determine the failure mode.
9. Upon request of Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd., PURCHASER shall have promptly returned to Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd., FOB shipping point-freight prepaid, any Product believed to be defective or nonconforming. PURCHASER must request and receive from Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd. a Return Material Authorization (RMA) for any Product believed to be defective or nonconforming prior to returning such Product to Hitachi Chemical Energy Technology (Americas) Co., Ltd..
9. The Warranty shall be enforceable by PURCHASER of the Products.
10. The Warranty shall be rendered void if the Product is serviced by any party other than a representative from one of PURCHASER's authorized Service Centers or a party which PURCHASER's Service Department has pre-approved in writing or if Product has not been serviced per PURCHASER's instructions.
11. The warranty will be void if the Product is used in any applications other than those intended for the HRL AND
